

I am concerned with the options for a la carte channels, I feel that would needlessly raise rates for programming which I currently feel are outrageous to begin with. I am going on record as against any attempt for this type programming.